

www.acrimed.org

Keywords: Europe, France, French, Journalism, media diversity, freedom of speech, expression

Born from the French social movement of 1995, this association created itself as a hub for all things related to the media. It reunites journalists and people involved in media, researchers and university students, as well as any one exposed to the media. ACRIMED is a pool of information, professional experience and opinions for an independent critique which is radical and intransigent.