The African Network for Strategic Communication in Health and Development (AfriComNet) awards journalists and organizations for Excellence in HIV/AIDS Communication in Africa.

AfriComNet is an association of health and development practitioners that reside, work, or have a primary interest in Africa. Journalists who are African citizens or who have worked in Africa for two years are invited to take a part in this competition. The best HIV/AIDS mass media campaign, multimedia or other production, article, series or column are awarded.
