

Keywords: Diversity, Conflict, Media relations, Investigative journalism, Basic journalism, English, Serbian, Print, Academic Curricula Development, south east Europe, rest of the world, media

Dr Verica Rupar is an Associate Professor at the School of Communication Studies, Auckland University.

Her teaching and research interests are in comparative journalism studies, and in particular international reporting, political reporting and science reporting.

Her current projects are on journalism and meaning making and on journalism form and style in historical and comparative contexts - serial of projects on journalism practice in Serbia, New Zealand, Australia and the UK.

 Verica Rupar's CV