

Keywords: Tolerance, discrimination, human rights, gender, on-line, investigative reporting, Freedom of expression and diversity, Peace journalism, English, print, on-line, All Regions, All Organizations

British journalist, with wide experience as a reporter and news editor on leading British newspapers – for the last dozen years, an editorial consultant, training journalists and advising news organizations around the globe.

From 2005 to 2007, editorial director of the human rights reporting programme, working with the Great Britain-China Centre and Tsinghua University, producing the first manual of human rights reporting for Chinese journalists.

Half a year in Afghanistan (2004-5) as managing editor of the new national Pajhwok news agency (IWPR for USAID).

UN media consultant in Bangladesh (2001-2), for the UNDP's Parliament and Democracy project.

 Martin Huckerby CV.doc